How to operate a fire extinguisher

There are a number of different types of portable fire extinguishers, each can be identified by the colour coding and labelling. Check that the extinguisher you intend to use is suitable for the type of fire encountered eg a water extinguisher must never be used on any fire involving electrical equipment. There are four (4) basic steps for using modern portable fire extinguishers.

The acronym PASS is used to describe these four basic steps.

Pull (Pin)

Pull pin at the top of the extinguisher, breaking the seal. When in place, the pin keeps the handle from being pressed and accidentally operating the extinguisher. Immediately test the extinguisher. (Aiming away from the operator). This is to ensure the extinguisher works and also shows the operator how far the stream travels.

Aim

Approach the fire standing at a safe distance. Aim the nozzle or outlet towards the base of the fire.

Squeeze

Squeeze the handles together to discharge the extinguishing agent inside. To stop discharge, release the handles.

Sweep

Sweep the nozzle from side to side as you approach the fire, directing the extinguishing agent at the base of the flames. After an A Class fire is extinguished, probe for smouldering hot spots that could reignite the fuel.

Types of fire extinguisher

CO₂

CO₂ extinguishers are multi-purpose extinguishers, covering the following types of fire:

- Flammable liquids such as petrol, diesel, white spirits etc
- Electric Risk fires

Foam Fire Extinguisher

Foam extinguishers are dual purpose and provide cover for freely burning materials. They are not safe to use on cooking oil. It also provides cover for the following flammable liquids:

- Petrol
- Diesel
- White spirits

Fire Blanket

Fire blankets are used to smother smaller fires, cutting off the oxygen supply. Fire blankets can cover: people, toasters, kettles, microwaves, bins, and electronic devices.

Our story

"There's something about this land which captures your imagination and transports you to a less complicated time. There's a peacefulness here which gives you time and space to reflect and enjoy the beauty of your surroundings. South Shropshire is a hidden gem."

Chris Morris, Owner and Director

Marrington Estate is owned by the Morris family, who in the 1840s, lived down the road in West Felton where their large family farmed. Some years after the family photograph below was taken, James Kent Morris set up his modest retail and property enterprise in 1869 which would build the foundations for the larger family business today. James Kent would have loved to know that the beautiful estate on his doorstep would one day be owned and managed by his descendants. We have owned and maintained this estate for over 15 years, actively investing and improving the grounds. This ranges from planting trees, fencing, ditching, hedge pleaching and of course, inviting the public to come and share the space.

The earliest historical reference to the beautiful Marrington Estate is in the Domesday Book of 1086 which mentions woodland for fattening 15 pigs at Marrington, which may have been within the gorge. The place-name Marrington, given as Meritune in the Domesday Book, is derived from the Old English elements gemaere and tun, meaning settlement on the boundary.

Exploring the Estate

With spectacular vistas, Marrington's river gorge and valley crests make for wonderful walking. Explore the public footpaths along the ancient winding paths, to catch a glimpse of a kingfisher diving for supper or hear the splash of an otter or brown river trout making his way along the Camlad. There's something to discover around every corner.

Included within your guest information pack is a map for our Dingle Valley Walks, which covers much of the 600-acre estate. Feel free to explore the designated routes at your leisure, we just ask that you don't enter any areas marked 'No Entry' for your safety.

GATE CODE

Whilst walking on the Estate, you may come across locked gates. Don't worry, all Marrington guests have access to explore these designated routes. Simply lift the code cover, reset then press 2468 and enter. Please ignore the key.

Walking Safely

Our Dingle Valley Walks and public rights of way provide extensive access to the Marrington Estate and surrounding countryside. The footpaths are clearly marked with new wayfinding signs and stiles to help you walk safely and without worrying that you have strayed off route into conservation areas and too close to livestock.

Countryside Code

- Be safe, plan ahead and follow any signs. Take maps and guidebooks.
- Leave gates and property as you find them.
- Protect plants and animals and take your litter home.
- Keep dogs under close control.
- Consider other people.

How to walk safely through a field of livestock

Whatever the animal, follow our top tips and you'll be unlikely to run into any issues.

- Have a look around when you reach the edge of the field. Are there any cows with calves, horses, or sheep? Cows with calves are the most common cause of problems for walkers as they actively protect their young.

- Do not enter a field that contains a bull. There will be plenty of signage around the field and gateways to prevent this.
- Keep a good distance from the animals. If they are on a path, then you're allowed to go off the path to walk around them. If you are on open access land, then you can walk across the field to give the animals space.
- Walk quickly and quietly. Animals may approach you, especially groups of cows, which can be quite intimidating. If you panic, or run they may also start running.
- Do not approach any animals and certainly do not feed them or touch them. Animals on a farm will have strict diets, especially horses, and feeding them can be very harmful.
- Leave any gates as you find them. Close any gates that you open, and if they are already open, then leave them that way

Walking with a dog near livestock

It is an offence to not keep your dog under control when in a field with animals. This is especially an issue with sheep, as dogs may chase, worry or even attack them. The law gives farmers the right to shoot a dog that is causing issues with their animals.

Always keep your dog on a lead when around animals. If cattle are running towards you, or you feel in any way in danger, then let your dog off the lead. Your dog will be able to get to safety and removing the dog from the situation will calm the cattle.

Private chefs

If you're hosting a celebration, or just want to relieve the stress of cooking, there are a host of private chefs who are available for hire. We've compiled a list of some of our local operators:

Is there a smoking policy in the properties?

Yes, there is. Smoking is NOT allowed in any of our properties.

There is an ashtray under the sink in the kitchen of each property for use outside the property.

Please see our Terms and Conditions which highlight potential cleaning costs incurred if this condition is broken.

Do I need to clean the property when I leave?

We do ask guests to leave your holiday cottage clean and tidy at the end of your stay, with beds stripped and bedding left in the bedrooms, towels in baths or shower trays and rubbish in appropriate outside bins.

For any further guidance on your responsibilities as a customer, please see our Terms and Conditions.

What if I leave something behind at the property when I leave?

We do ask guests to check carefully that you haven't left anything behind when you leave – especially phone chargers!

However, we will do our best to return any forgotten items provided they are not too large or heavy. A reasonable postage charge may be applied.

Dog owner's guidelines

We love and welcome dogs in our properties. We charge a standard fee of £50 (+VAT) per stay applies for up to 2 dogs. Each additional dog incurs a £25 (+VAT) charge. This is applied after your booking is made.

The number of dogs guests can bring are limited by the size of the property as follows. For further information contact stay@marringtonescapes.com

- Property sleeping up to 2: maximum 2 dogs
- Property sleeping more than 2: maximum 3 dogs

Dogs must be kept under control while inside the property. When out on the estate, dogs must be kept on a lead to safeguard the livestock and wildlife. Please only walk on the public footpaths.

All dogs must have had all required vaccinations and annual boosters before arrival at the Property.

Despite our best efforts, dog owners should acknowledge that outside areas are not escape-proof for dogs. For this reason, dogs should always remain under supervision.

Dogs must not be left alone in or at the property or within the grounds at any time.

With the exception of registered guide dogs, dogs are not permitted upstairs and/or in any of the bedrooms. Guests should bring their own dog beds; however, we can provide medium-sized soft doggy guest beds on request at the time of booking.

Guests are asked to clean up after their dogs both inside and outside of the property within the garden area, or extra cleaning costs may be charged. Bags are available next to the dedicated Dog Waste Bins located in each of the gardens. On the wider estate, we recommend 'stick and flick' for clearing dog waste off the pathways.

Dog owners must ensure that their pets are free from parasites and fleas before they occupy the Property. Failure to do so may incur subsequent charges.

Registered guide and hearing dogs belonging to guests with visual and hearing impairments are welcomed in our properties.

Each of our properties have a dog bath outside to wash off muddy paws. Dog towels can be found alongside the blue and white striped outdoor leisure towels. Please leave used dog towels on the utility floor of the property upon check-out.

You can find some dog treats in the utility room, or on the breakfast bar in The Annexe.

A staycation in the idyllic county of Shropshire feels like taking a journey back in time, its panorama of lush green hills and sweeping valleys stretching as far as the eye can see. From our chic farmhouse base in the village of Chirbury, we were perfectly placed to explore Shropshire's pretty and beautifully preserved historic towns, and we spent a fun and all-too-brief afternoon in Shrewsbury itself, a market town on the River Severn.

I think the biggest compliment to any holiday stay, is when nobody wants to go home at the end of the break. From the moment we walked into the barn we fell in love with the place. The outside space is brilliant too, with a lovely secure walled-garden, which our 6 year old loved, a comfy seating area and the cleanest hot tub we have ever encountered. All in all - for us - just perfect...

Julie, Camlad Barn

We had a lovely long weekend stay - the house was really great, clean and homely but also elegantly furnished and finished with great care. The kitchen had a really good selection of crockery and cooking utensils too which made things so much easier. The weather was kind, the food was good as was the company so the house provided the perfect location for a birthday weekend
